The most unattractive place in nil Colorado, et its size and imperiance, is Pueblo. It is not so much the place livel, perhaps, as that it is circusted on these alkall pishes and has mulhing beautifuler attractive in its multing beautiful er attractive in its surroundings. Yet the lo. n is largai Mexican in all appearance, makeup ami characteristics, and contains a mixed population of Mexican hordirs, Western hondlums and enterprising hushiess men. It does quito a trade with the country south and west of here, and at one time aspired to be the rival of Deuver as the chief commercial point in the State, or of commercial point in the State, or of bis region; but these aspirations have apparently been nipped lu the hud. It had considerable of a boom LYDIA E PINKHAM'S that year, but that has subsided and the prinspects of this eyer becoming two of tha big places of the West do not seem to be very flattering. The water here is insufferably mean, and ikali dust forments you in every direction and all times. In striking contrast with Puchlo is Colorado contrast with Pueblo is Colorado Springs, forty-five miles north of here on the road to Deuver. It is the sungglest, pratilest one healthlest place in Colorado. No pretensions to commercial importance are used by it, yet a fair trade is done with the country round, while a resort it goes is rahead of all others in this part of the world. October 25th, 1882.

This date will long be remembered as the most eventful in the history of Hopkinsville. The disastrons confirgration which destroyed a large portion of our little city will never le forgotten. The fire was undoubtedfy the work of an incendlary and was started for the purpose of stealing and pillaging. It was started in the loft of Tobe Smith's stable, at a few minutes before 6 e'clock. All of the circumstances go to show that it was a premeditated deed. The fire company, the engine horses, and nearly all the chizens of the town were at timir supper and few people wers on the streets. Most of Mr. Smith's bands were out and he was in the act of leaving. He was just preparing to Hall, Control Morel and many of the have his stable lighted up, and found fluest buildings in the city were conthat his coal oil can was gone. His sumed in less than three hours, and swepicions were not aroused, but sud- the West aido of Muln street was ondenly a flash, n blaze, and a man ly saved by the sudden changing of toeped from the window and took to the wind. itls hects. He sprang up the fadder, throw a blanket over the little flame, and had almost extinguished it, when a cracking sound behind attracted his attention, and turning he saw list the fire had been started in two pln ces and that all was donmed. He gave the alarm, but in ten minutes the whole block was in flames, and in half an hour the work was done. The engine did oxcellent scryice lu sav-

Before the fires had died out, and while the bricks were yet hot and smoking the work of re-building was begun, and the contracts for several houses have slrendy been let out. The block on Main, between Spring
